THE Public are requested to lend their assistance towards the formation of a Society, the object of which will be to second the intentions of the Legislature and co-operate with the friends of the 'SLAVE TRADE ABOLITION' in other quarters of the World.

It is proposed to entitle it 'THE JAVA BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION' and by associating it in plan and principle with 'the African Institution' it is hoped to extend the philanthropic views of that admirable body throughout the Eastern Islands.

To those interested in the cause of humanity, the following brief account of the parent Institution may prove gratifying:—

In the year 1807, those benevolent Individuals, who had been chiefly instrumental in carrying 'the Abolition' through the British Parliament, anxious to perfect their great work, resolved to form themselves into a Society, to watch over and assist its progress, to disseminate information, and by promoting education and the arts of civilization, to repair the misfortunes which Africa had sustained from the Slave Trade.

Eight years of successful and unremitted labours have confirmed its utility and enlarged its views; the restoration of peace and order, the promotion of agriculture and commerce, the acquirement and diffusion of knowledge, and the detection of Slave Traders, are amongst the first fruits of an Establishment, whose future achievements in the cause of human nature promise 'to throw its past history into the shade.'

If from the introduction of its views, and the successful imitation of its example, a portion of the same good can be here realized, the result cannot fail to be as beneficial to these Colonies as the attempt will be honorable to its supporters.

N. B.—Subscribers are requested to send their names to the Printer of this Gazette, in which they will regularly be published for information of the community at large.

Orders by Government.

IN order to produce uniformity in the Reports of Vaccination, as now established generally on this Island, the following regulation is established by Government.

In the Eastern Districts, the Reports of Vaccination in each Residency from the Priests and local Vaccinators, as arranged and provided for by the circular letter issued in May last, will be collected by the Chief Civil Authority, and by him forwarded to the Superintendent of Vaccination within the Division in which the Residency is situated.

Thus the reports from Rembang and the more Eastward Residencies will be sent to the Superintendent of Vaccination at Sourabaya, and those from the several Residencies, from Japara to Tagal, including the Territories of the Native Princes, will be sent to the Superintendent of Vaccination at Samarang.

The Reports in Cheribon and in the Preanger Regencies will be collected by Mr. A. de Wilde, appointed Superintendent in that part of the country, and those in the Town and Environs of Batavia, including Buitenzorg, will be collected by Assistant Surgeon Sir Thomas Sevestro.

The Civil Surgeon at Bantam will collect and forward his monthly Vaccination Returns direct.

The Reports being thus collected by the Superintendants of Vaccination abovementioned, these Officers will transmit monthly to the Collector of Medical Reports a General Monthly Return, agreeably to the annexed form, and a Duplicate of each Monthly Return is to be sent to Government direct.

Until further orders, Vaccination on the private Estates in the Suburbs of Batavia and in the Residency of Buitenzorg will continue to be carried on under the immediate direction of the Landholders—but the Landholders are required to transmit to the Superintendent of Vaccination at Batavia regular Reports of their proceedings in this respect, and will avail themselves of his aid and superintendence to extend Vaccination throughout the country.

EUROPE.

HOUSE OF LORDS,

WEDNESDAY, JULY 12.

THE PROROGATION.

A few minutes after two o'clock his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, attended by the Royal Suite (in which the Sword of State was borne by the Earl of Liverpool, the Cap of Maintenance by the Marquis of Winchester, the Imperial Crown of the Realm by Lord Graves, and the Prince of Wales's Crown by General Sir John Craddock, K. G. C. B) entered the House, and being seated on the Throne in his Royal robes, Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Knt. Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was dispatched to order the attendance of the Commons, who forthwith, to a great number, with the Speaker at their head, appeared at the Bar.

The Speaker then addressed the Prince Regent as follows:—

"MAY IT PLEASE YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS, We, his Majesty's faithful subjects, the Commons of Great Britain and Ireland, in obedience to your Royal Highness's commands, attend your Royal Highness; and, according to our ancient privilege, we crave leave to present with our own hands our Grants of Supply, which conclude the labours of the Session.

"In the ordinary course of our proceedings, much of our time has been occupied in discussing measures of great importance to the state, with respect to its agriculture, shipping, and finances.

"We have endeavoured so to regulate our Corn Laws, with prudence and firmness, that protection and encouragement may be given to the agricultural interests of every part of the United Kingdom, without endangering the prosperity of our trade and manufactures. We have endeavoured also to derive new means of maritime strength, from the valuable resources of our Indian possessions; and after devising and preparing such plans for adjusting the public Revenue and Expenditure, as might suit a period of returning peace, we have been called upon by unlooked for wants to renew our exertions and sacrifices upon the most extended scale of war.

"Scarcely had we closed our contest with America, and scarcely had the Congress of Vienna laid the first foundation of those arrangements which were destined to consolidate the peace of Europe, when in direct contravention of the most solemn engagements the disturber of Europe and destroyer of the human race reappeared upon the throne of France, and the world was once more in arms.

"In the short space of three months; by rapid strides, the fate of Europe has been again brought to issue, and the conflict was tremendous, but the result has been glorious. The most warlike nations, headed by the most renowned Commanders, have met in battle; and as Britons we have the triumphant satisfaction to know (however much that triumph may be saddened by private grief) that it is now no longer doubtful to what nation the world will henceforth ascribe the pre-eminence for military skill and unconquerable valour.

"To consecrate the trophies and perpetuate the fame of our brave countrymen who fell in that unrivalled victory, we have declared to be our ardent desire, and it will be the distinguishing glory of your Royal Highness's days, to erect in the metropolis of this Empire, such a lofty and durable monument of their military renown and our national gratitude, as may command the veneration of our latest posterity.

"Great, however, and glorious as this victory has been in itself, it is not to the joint exertions and heroic achievements of the British and Prussian arms in that memorable conflict that we must limit our admiration. We have also to contemplate with equal pride and satisfaction its immediate consequences, military, political, and moral.

"We have seen the illustrious Commanders of the Allied Armies advancing at once into the heart of France; and Paris, twice conquered, has again opened her gates to the conquerors.

"The Usurper of a Throne, which he has twice abdicated, has sought his safety in an ignominious flight; and the rightful Sovereign of France has once more resumed the sceptre of his ancestors.

"With these awful scenes passing before us, we may presume also to hope, that the period is not now distant, when the hand of Providence will finally extinguish the remaining effects of that guilty and perfidious spirit of domination, which has long raged without controul, and restore to desolated Europe the blessings of Peace and justice.

"But, Sir, whatever may be the final issue of these great transactions, we look forward with confidence to their satisfactory conclusion, under the auspices of your Royal Highness; and we doubt not of the happiest results from the same Councils which have planned, and the same hands that have executed those wise and vigorous measures, which have been hitherto crowned with such signal success.

"On our part it is our humble duty to strengthen the means of your Royal Highness's Government; and towards effectuating that purpose, we, his Majesty's faithful Commons do this day present to your Royal Highness a Bill intituled, 'An Act for enabling his Majesty to raise the Sum Six Millions for the service of Great Britain.'—(The Vote of Credit Bill) To which, with all humility, we entreat his Majesty's Royal Assent.

The Royal Assent was then signified by the Prince Regent to the Vote of Credit Bill, the American Trade Bill, Copyhold Estates, the Bread Assize, the Apothecaries' Regulation, Colebrooke's Estate Exemption, and to five Private Bills.

After which the Regent delivered the following Speech from the Throne:—

"My Lords and Gentlemen, I cannot close this Session of Parliament without again expressing my deep regret at the continuance of his Majesty's lamented indisposition.

"At the commencement of the present Session I entertained a confident hope, that the Peace which I had concluded in conjunction with his Majesty's Allies would meet with no interruption; that after so many years of continued warfare and of unexampled calamity, the Nations of Europe would be allowed to enjoy that repose for which they had been so long contending; and that your efforts might be directed to alleviate the burthens of his Majesty's people, and to adopt such measures as might best promote the internal prosperity of his dominions.

"These expectations were disappointed by an act of violence and perfidy of which no parallel can be found in history.

"The usurpation of the Supreme Authority in France by Bonaparte, in consequence of the defection of the French Armies from their legitimate Sovereign, appeared to me to be so incompatible with the general security of other countries, as well as with the engagements to which the French nation had recently been a party, that I felt I had no alternative but to employ the military resources of his Majesty's dominions, in conjunction with his Majesty's Allies, to prevent the re-establishment of a system which experience had proved to be the source of such incalculable woes to Europe.

"Under such circumstances you will have seen with just pride and satisfaction the splendid success with which it has pleased Divine Providence to bless his Majesty's arms and those of his Allies.

"Whilst the glorious and ever memorable victory obtained at Waterloo, by Field-Marshal the Duke of Wellington and Prince Blucher, has added fresh lustre to the characters of those great Commanders, and has exalted the military reputation of this country beyond all former example, it has at the same time produced the most decisive effects on the operations of the war, by delivering from invasion the dominions of the King of the Netherlands, and by placing, in the short space of fifteen days, the city of Paris and a large part of the kingdom of France in the military occupation of the Allied Armies.

"Amidst events so important, I am confident you will see how necessary it is, that there should be no relaxation in our exertions, until I shall be enabled, in conjunction with his Majesty's Allies, to complete those arrangements which may afford the prospect of permanent peace and security to Europe.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons, I thank you for the very liberal provision you have made for the services of the present year.

"I deeply lament the continuance and increase of those burthens which the great military exertions of the present campaign, combined with the heavy arrears remaining due for the expences of the former war, have rendered indispensable, and which his Majesty's loyal subjects, from a conviction of their necessity, have sustained with such exemplary fortitude and cheerfulness.

"You have already seen, however, the fruit of the exertions which have been made; and there can be no doubt that the best economy will be found to result from that policy which may enable us to bring the contest to the most speedy termination.

"My Lords and Gentlemen, The brilliant and rapid success of the Austrian arms at the opening of the campaign has led to the restoration of the Kingdom of Naples to its ancient Sovereign, and to the deliverance of that important portion of Italy from foreign influence and domination.

"I have further the satisfaction of acquainting you, that the authority of his Most Christian Majesty has been again acknowledged in his capital, to which his Majesty has himself repaired.

"The restoration of Peace between this country and the United States of America has been followed by a Negotiation for a Commercial Treaty, which I have every reason to hope will be terminated upon conditions calculated to cement the good understanding subsisting between the two countries, and equally beneficial to the interests of both.

"I have great pleasure in acquainting you, that the labours of the Congress at Vienna have been brought to a conclusion by the signature of a Treaty, which, as the ratifications have not yet been exchanged, could not be communicated to you, but which I expect to be enabled to lay before you when I next meet you in Parliament.

"I cannot release you from your attendance without assuring you, that it is in a great degree to the support which you have afforded me, that I ascribe the success of my earnest endeavours for the public welfare; and on no occasion has that support been more important than in the course of the present Session.

"In the further prosecution of such measures as may be necessary to bring the great contest in which we are engaged, to an honourable & satisfactory conclusion, I shall rely with confidence on the experienced zeal and steady loyalty of all classes of his Majesty's subjects, and they may depend on my efforts to improve our present advantages in such manner as may best provide for the general tranquillity of Europe, and maintain the high character which this country enjoys amongst the nations of the world.

At the conclusion of the Royal Speech, the Lord Chancellor having approached the Throne, and received the Prince Regent's commands for the purpose, came forward, and addressed both Houses, as follows:—

"My Lords and Gentlemen, It is the will and pleasure of his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on behalf of his Majesty, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the twenty-second day of August next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the 22d day of August next."

LONDON GAZETTE.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

Downing-street, June 29, 1815.

Dispatches, of which the following are extracts, have been this day received by Earl Bathurst from Field-Marshal His Grace the Duke of Wellington, dated Cateau, 22d, and Joncourt, 25th instant.

La Cateau, June 22, 1815.

We have continued in march on the left of the Sambre since I wrote to you. Marshal Blucher crossed that river on the 19th, in pursuit of the enemy, and both armies entered the French territory yesterday; the Prussians by Beaumont, and the allied army, under my command, by Bavay.

The remains of the French army have retired upon Laon. All accounts agree in stating, that it is in a very wretched state; and that, in addition to its losses in battle and in prisoners, it is losing vast numbers of men by desertion.

The soldiers quit their regiments in parties, and return to their homes: those of the cavalry and artillery selling their horses to the people of the country.

The 3d corps, which in my dispatch of the 19th I informed your Lordship had been detached to observe the Prussian army, remained in the neighbourhood of Wavre till the 20th; it then made good its retreat by Namur and Dinant. This corps is the only one remaining entire.

I am not yet able to transmit your Lordship returns of the killed and wounded in the army in the late actions.

It gives me the greatest satisfaction to inform you, that Colonel Delancey is not dead; he is badly wounded, but his recovery is not doubted, and I hope will be early.

Joncourt, June 25, 1815.

Finding that the garrison of Cambray was not very strong, and that the place was not very well supplied with what was wanting for its defence, I sent Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Colville there, on the day before yesterday, with one brigade of the 4th division, and Sir C. Grant's brigade of cavalry; and upon his report of the strength of the place, I sent the whole division yesterday morning.

I have now the satisfaction of reporting that Sir Charles Colville took the town by Escalade yesterday evening, with trifling loss, and from the communications which he has since had with the Governor of the citadel, I have every reason to hope that that post will have been surrendered to a Governor sent there by the King of France, to take possession of it, in the course of this day.

St. Quentin has been abandoned by the enemy, and is in possession of Marshal Prince Blucher; and the castle of Guise surrendered last night.

All accounts concur in stating, that it is impossible for the enemy to collect an army to make head against us.

It appears that the French corps which was opposed to the Prussians on the 18th instant, and had been at Wavre, suffered considerably in its retreat, and lost some of its cannon.

Downing-Street, July 3, 1815.

A Dispatch, of which the following is a copy, was last night received, addressed to Earl Bathurst, by His Grace the Duke of Wellington, dated Ovrille, June 29, 1815.

My Lord, Being aware of the anxiety existing in England to receive the returns of killed and wounded in the late actions, I now send lists of the officers, and expect to be able to send this evening the names of the non-commissioned (Continued after the Poetry.)

ADDRESS,

IN HONOUR OF THE IMMORTAL WELLINGTON.

SPOKEN BY MRS. EDWIN,

AT THE THEATRE ROYAL, DRURY-LANE, JULY 3.

WRITTEN BY S. J. ARNOLD, ESQ.

Oh! for that "Muse of Fire!" whose burning pen
Records the God-like deeds of valiant men!
These might our humble, yet aspiring verse,
Our matchless Hero's matchless deeds rehearse.

But, poor the tribute of these artless lays,
Superior deeds demand superior praise;
Yet may this simple verse our zeal impart,
And find acceptance from the grateful heart.

Oh, to that Power be praise! whose gracious hand
Outstretch'd to save the guardian of our land!
Who, mid the fiercest shock of war's alarms,
Preserv'd the Hero to his country's arms;
Next, let joyous song, with loud acclaim,
Record our Wellington's illustrious name!
High thro' the air let shouts of triumph rise,
And bear that name exulting to the skies.

Lo! where our arms his oft-tried valour guides,
High o'er his banner victory precedes!
Yet chief, and foremost of each glorious claim,
His last great act has fix'd his deathless fame.
When with overwhelming force Napoleon pour'd
Along our scanty lines his desperate horde,
Calm mid the din to where his banner wav'd
Sprang the bold Arthur, and the world was sav'd!

On either side, the marshal'd troops advance,
Britannia's here, and there the files of France!
Here, Britain's Sons, with swelling hearts, invite
The storm of battle, and provoke the fight!
Pant with fresh ardour at the trumpet's sound,
And tread with lengthen'd strides, the intervening ground.

Now man on man,—on squadrons, squadrons rush,—
And strong battalions, whole battalions crush,—
Enfuriate valour, equal valour dares,
Swords clash with swords, and mimic lightning flares,
Charg'd with quick death, the swift-wing'd bullet
Speeds,

And many a heart of many a hero bleeds.—

Ill-fated soldier, not thy heart alone
Deep pierc'd, must bleed—nor single be the groan,
For hence, perhaps, some anxious friends attend;
(For who so wretched as to have no friend!)
Who eager watch, and with impatient wait,
The mournful tidings of thy doubtful fate;
With fearful haste the fatal Death-list read,
That names thee number'd with the glorious dead!

Still many a verse shall boast, with pitying pride,
How British heroes bravely fought and died—
How many a gallant soul, to Heaven now led,
A Hero conquer'd, or a Hero bled!
A Knot, cut off a Nation's faithful staff,
That Nation's sighs shall be his epitaph!

But brighter scenes reclaim the Muse's lay,
To boast the close of that tremendous day—
That day which saw dimm'd our once deadliest foe,
His prostrate eagles in the dust all low;
Saw our lov'd Hero foremost in the fray,
Where'er the battle rag'd, and danger lay!
Saw him, while fearful of his assail in vain,
Thrice in the hollow square the shock sustain!
There, like a Sire, whom valiant sons surround,
Secure the Warrior stood! while with one sound
Exulting burst this animated cry—
"Save! save! our Leader, or defending die!"
At length the flying foe confess defeat!
Then Britain hail'd her victory complete;
And that proud day shall ever sacred be,
Unconquer'd Wellington—to Heaven and Thee!

officers and soldiers. The amount of non-commissioned officers and soldiers, British and Hanoverian, killed, wounded and missing, is between 12 and 13,000.

Your Lordship will see in the enclosed lists the names of some most valuable officers lost to His Majesty's service.—Among them I cannot avoid to mention Colonel Cameron of the 92d, and Colonel Sir H. Ellis of the 23d regiments, to whose conduct I have frequently drawn your Lordship's attention, and who at last fell distinguishing themselves at the head of the brave troops which they commanded.

Notwithstanding the glory of the occasion, it is impossible not to lament such men, both on account of the public and as friends.

I have the honour to be, &c.
